

Murry Gunty is the Founder and Chief Executive Officer of Blackstreet Capital Holdings. Mr. Gunty graduated from Harvard College, where he received a BA in economics, and Harvard Business School, where he received an MBA. Prior to founding Blackstreet, Mr. Gunty was CEO and Founder of BCM, a General Partner at Jacobson Partners, LP, and was a Partner at Lazard Freres Real Estate, LLC. He also worked at the Blackstone Group, where he was an Analyst.

Blackstreet is a privately held diversified operating company that owns and manages lower middle market businesses. BCH is not a private equity fund. Instead, BCH is a permanent holding company that seeks investments in debt and equity of lower middle market businesses or corporate orphans that are in out-of-favor industries or are undergoing some form of transition. It invests in a range of industries including education, manufacturing, sports and entertainment, distribution, retail, technology, consumer finance and franchising.